Swim to Survive summer camp teaches water safety skills around rivers and lakes in communities without a pool. In 2023, camps were held in Old Crow (16 children) and Teslin (20 children).

To date, 26 Yukoners have earned a Certificate in Northern Recreation Leadership and 9 a Certificate in Northern Recreation Management. This past year, 13 from Carmacks, Mendenhall, Haines Junction, Marsh Lake, Watson Lake and Whitehorse took part in training.

Every learning event seems to match up perfectly with the timing of what's going on at our Rec Centre, which has been a blessing.

Annual Recreation Gathering

"Reconnecting & Revitalizing" was held October 3-5, 2023 in Carmacks with 31 leaders from 10 Yukon communities!

GOAL #1: We promote the benefits of active living, recreation and parks for health and wellbeing.

GOAL #2: We foster active, accessible, inclusive, and culturally-relevant recreation.

GOAL #3: We strengthen recreation capacity and leadership, prioritizing our support of rural and First Nations communities.

GOAL #4: We operate effectively, efficiently and sustainably.

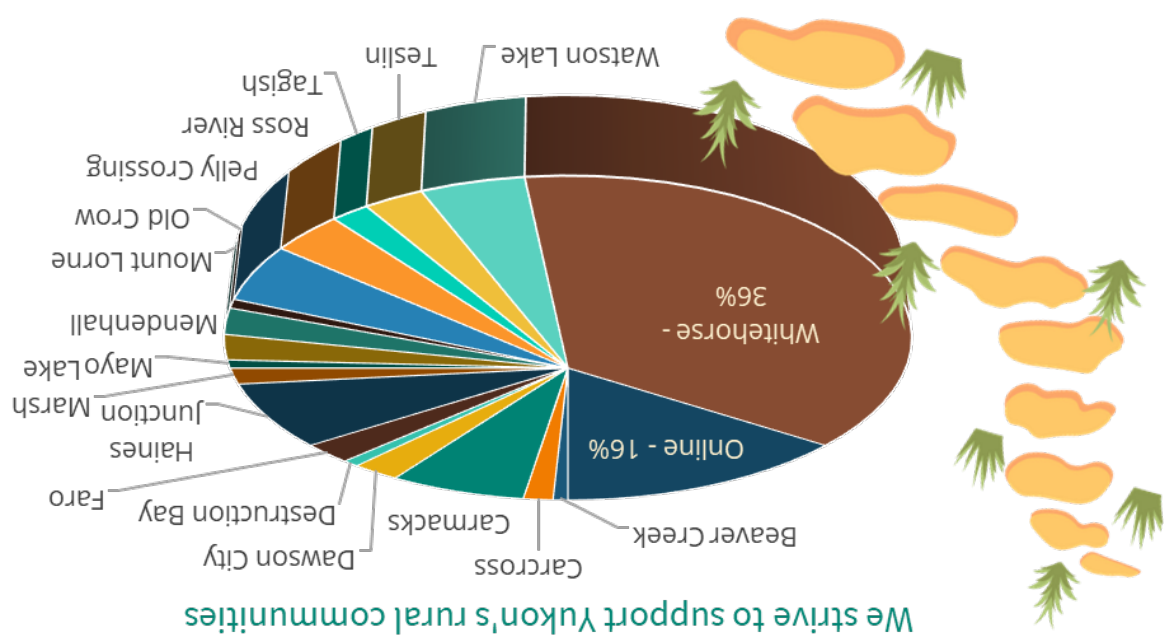

With RPAY, go Nordic walking, repair your bike, borrow a kick sled...

Later this summer, RPAY invites you to relax on one of our park benches or get active with one of our Toy Sheds...

At RPAY, we support Yukon communities to engage their citizens in active, healthy lifestyles through recreation & parks. Our efforts are guided by 4 strategic goals.

We strive to support Yukon's rural communities

Our Annual Report offers a glimpse into some of the activities and projects that have kept us busy. As well as regular programming, we supported community events with swag, fun games, information booths, and more. Perhaps you saw us at the Carcross Tagish First Nation Health Fair or at Mt. Sima for the International Para-Snowboarding Cup. We were in Haines Junction for the Shana Natsat Spring Ski Celebration, Cui-De-Sac Bike Rodeo, and Career Fair. It was an honour to be invited to the Selkirk First Nation Culture Camp and the Teslin Sports Camp. We offered a Nordic walking leader training with the Canada Games Centre and helped out with the City's Bike Rodeo and the HopOn Cycling Program. Our Spike ball "See it, Try it" activities at the Fireweed Market were a hit, thanks to ParticipACTION. We also presented at the Association of Yukon Communities annual conference, at the Yukon Health Summit, during the Northern Dialogues conference, and to the Yukon Native Teacher Education Program.

On April 19, 2023, we celebrated 30 years of service to Yukoners. Since then, our dedicated staff and contractors have visited almost every Yukon community at least once. During our visits, we deliver programs like Cycle Smart or programs like APE or WAFL. We connect with recreation staff and volunteers, to learn what's working well and what isn't, and to help with whatever the community might need to engage their citizens in active, healthy lifestyles through recreation and parks.

It's been a busy year at RPAY!

Cyndy Bekk received the 2023 RPAY Recognition Award. Tina Freake and Lindsay Johnston were presented with the 2023 Government of Yukon Sport and Recreation Award. Caroline Sparks was recognized nationally with the 2023 CPRA Presidents Award. Peter Jacob and David Jennings earned their Certificate in Northern Recreation Leadership as well as their Certificate in Northern Recreation Management along with me, Anne Morgan.

Congratulations from RPAY!

Many amazing people work and volunteer in parks and recreation across the territory. Last year, some of these were recognized for their contribution. I would like to acknowledge Lotteries Yukon for their steadfast support of our WAFL (Winter Active for Life) Equipment Library. Since 2018-19, industry standards for cross country skiing have changed and our WAFL equipment has aged. Yet, the demand for free loans of kick sleds, cross country ski, and snowshoe gear to rural and First Nation communities, and to underserved groups in Whitehorse, continues to grow. Last Fall, Lotteries Yukon approved a grant for upgrading the WAFL Equipment Library. The grant will let us retire old equipment and purchase 400 new pairs of boots, 300 sets of bindings, 48 new ski and binding sets, 19 new kick sleds, and some adaptive snow sleds. Watch for these upgrades next winter!

On behalf of RPAY...

We are looking forward to partnering with the YSPOR Unit at the Yukon Research Centre on the 2025 Yukon Healthy Living Study research project. This research will explore recreation patterns and preferences as well as food literacy and help us to adapt our programs and services to interests and needs across the Yukon.

So, what's new at RPAY?

In July, we welcomed a new Special Projects Coordinator to our staff. Rebecca Koser, a born and raised Yukoner from Ross River, brings a background in aquatics and outdoor recreation/tourism. Rebecca will help with our new initiative supporting outdoor, unstructured recreation. As part of this project, we have already purchased and installed 9 Bike Repair Stations in communities and are working with Duncan's in Whitehorse to design and produce 'toy sheds', a fort-style shelter to house things like balls and hoola hoops.

RPAY extends a deep gratitude to our Board, funders and partners who share our passion for parks and recreation and help us contribute to opportunities for Yukoners to be active and healthy.

We appreciate the recreation practitioners and volunteers, communities, recreation authorities, schools, Yukon First Nations, governments and non-profit organizations across the Yukon, the North, and nationally who help to make the Yukon a better place to live through recreation and parks.
